U. S. COLUMNS ARE 45 MILES FROM BERLIN

Ninth Gains Further As First Opens Battle For Leipzig

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, April 13.—The Ninth army closed within 45 miles of Berlin today and the First army opened the battle for Leipzig, closing within seven miles of the battered city where a million Germans were believed huddled in cellars and shelters.

The Ninth army closed up to the already-crossed Elbe river on a front of nearly 100 miles after a record 60-mile armored advance, outflanking Denmark, Hamburg and Luebeck.

The Ninth Armored division closed into the Leipzig defenses in the village of Dalzig, seven miles southwest of the big Saxony center. Tanks rumbled eastward in a move to isolate the city. They were within 95 miles of Russian lines.

100 Mile Front On River
Nearly a hundred miles of the Elbe banks were patrolled by Ninth army troops tonight. They stood within 90 miles of Russian siege lines east of the sprawling, ruined capital.

The nearest approach to the capital was in a bend of the river just south of Tangermunde, where the Germans blew the bridges.

Duisburg, Europe's greatest inland port and Germany's 14th city, fell to the Ninth army in the shrinking and bypassed Ruhr pocket. The Third army captured Erfurt, reached the streets of Jena and were 18 miles from Leipzig and 34 from Carlsbad.

Between these forces of Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson and George S. Patton, Jr., First army tanks broke into a 35-mile run to within 17 miles of Leipzig, largest city in Saxony.

Lt. Gen. Courtney H. Hodges' shock troops reached the Weisse river two miles west of Zeitz, a town already within light artillery range of the Third army.

Resistance Sluggish

War Wasn't Over, But Pottery Was Over Top

A shrieking plant whistle at the Salem China Co. plant caused some consternation among Salemites yesterday afternoon but the war was not over; the company had just passed its Seventh War Loan drive quota.

The fourth plant in Salem to do so, the China Co. whistle was merely the employees celebration of the accomplishment.

Numerous phone calls came to the News offices, asking if the war was over in Europe.

HONOR MEMORY OF ROOSEVELT

Political Party Lines Are Dropped As Ohioans Pay Tribute

Political party lines were down in Ohio today as the state's elected officials, political figures, business, church and civic leaders paid tribute to the memory of President Roosevelt.

The first public statement early last night came from former Gov. John W. Bricker, the 1944 Republican candidate for vice president, a few minutes before Gov. Frank J. Lausche commented on the loss of "a great leader."

Another tribute came from James M. Cox, former governor of Ohio and Democratic candidate for the presidency in 1920 with Mr. Roosevelt the vice presidential nominee. "The United States and the world have lost a great leader," Gov. Lausche said. "Through his absence the eventual peace conference will suffer an irreparable loss."

"I believe that if the President now were able to speak to us he would probably ask only one thing, and that is, that we continue shoulder to shoulder in a united effort and march to victory."

Bricker said that "even in position of mourning, we must continue to shoulder to shoulder in a united effort and march to victory."

VIENNA CAPTURED BY SOVIET FORCES

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, April 13.—Marshal Joseph Stalin announced tonight the capture of Vienna.

Fall of the Austrian capital came after eight days of bloody street fighting along the banks of the Danube.

One-time capital of the Hapsburgs and second only to Berlin in the greater Reich that Adolf Hitler put together, Vienna was the 18th European capital to fall to Allied armies.

With a population of 1,924,000, it is the world's 15th largest city. The last three days of the battle in Vienna had been spent in cleaning out German pockets on a narrow island between two branches of the Danube.

Russian spearheads had pushed on up the valley, and were reported fighting 45 miles west of the capital and less than 75 miles from the Bavarian border.

Dazed World Watches Truman Carry Banners Of War, Peace

By JACK BELL, Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON, April 13.—A dazed and questioning world today watched Harry S. Truman pick up the banners of war and peace that slipped yesterday from the lifeless fingers of Franklin D. Delano Roosevelt. Stunned by the shock of its leader's passing, a mourning nation gave solid backing to the gray-haired man in the gray business suit who became President of the United States at 7:09 last night.

Mr. Roosevelt died at Warm Springs, Ga., two hours and 34 minutes earlier. Mr. Truman, who didn't even want to run for vice president, went to work in the White House today—a question mark for all humanity.

The new President announced simply that he would try to carry on as he believes President Roosevelt would have done.

Then he asked the Roosevelt cabinet to stay on. He gave assurance that the United Nations conference would open in San Francisco April 25, on schedule. He issued a statement that the war would be prosecuted to the utmost on all fronts, east and west.

Today as international friends and enemies looked on, these prospects loomed.

Conferences Loom
A speedy summoning of Gen. George C. Marshall and Adm. Ernest J. King for the most important fill-in on the military situation any world leader ever needed at such a critical hour.

A conference with Secretary of State Stettinius on pressing and complicated international situations demanding the attention of a man who knows only the inside details he gained from cabinet meetings.

The sorrowful duty of helping arrange for a White House funeral at 4 p. m., Saturday for his predecessor.

These transcended such important questions as the likelihood that the new chief executive will want to meet as soon as possible with Prime Minister Churchill, whom he knows slightly, and Premier Stalin, whom he knows not at all.

Domestic problems could be pushed aside temporarily too, left to a cabinet that may see some changes later.

To the 60-year-old, ruddy, complexed new president fell the task of burying a chief executive for whom he had boundless admiration and unfaltering loyalty.

Mr. Roosevelt was struck down by a cerebral hemorrhage as he posed for an artist in his cottage at the Warm Springs infirmary paralytic foundation where he had gone for a rest.

He died without regaining consciousness.

Nation Is Dazed
The blow struck the nation to its heart as it read of climatic military successes in Germany and of a quickening of the war in the Pacific, and speculated on the success or failure of the forthcoming conference to form an organization Mr. Roosevelt hoped would prevent future wars.

Mr. Roosevelt, at a charity benefit, received the news by telephone. Without a word, she went to the White House. The call went out for Mr. Truman, who rushed there. His first words to Mrs. Roosevelt were of her and the four Roosevelt children.

Stores Closed From 2 To 5 Saturday; Plan Memorial Rites Sunday

Salem received the news of President Roosevelt's death with a mixture of sadness and disbelief yesterday, but settled down today with various plans of showing respect for the nation's war time leader with interruptions of regular operating hours in city buildings, schools and business places.

The Salem Ministerial association announced early today that a Memorial service will be held in the Methodist church at 8 p. m. Sunday. Details will be announced tomorrow.

Business houses will be closed from 2 until 5 p. m. Saturday and the management of the two theaters announced complete suspension of operations throughout the regular Saturday schedule.

Complying with the request of President Truman today that Saturday be observed as a day of prayer, Rev. R. E. Mosher, president of the Salem Ministerial association, turned to SALEM PAUSES, Page 7.

GOP WING GIVES TRUMAN SUPPORT

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—The Republican senate conference representing 40 of the body's 96 members pledged their "faith and trust" in President Truman today.

They gave their pledge as gripped congressional leaders cancelled routine business and met instead to arrange memorial services to the memory of President Roosevelt.

This is the resolution the Republicans adopted at an emergency meeting called an hour before the senate met for the first time in the Truman administration.

"In this critical and sorrowing hour when you are called to the supreme responsibility of the republic, we send you this expression of our faith and trust in you and the assurance of our sustaining prayers."

"We shall cooperate with you for the winning of the war and a successful peace at home and abroad. We have directed a committee to call upon you at your convenience to advise with you."

Their expression of unity was telegraphed to the new President at the White House. The message was signed by Sen. Vandenberg of Michigan, conference chairman, and Sen. Burton of Ohio, secretary.

President's Death Stuns Entire World

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Harry S. Truman proclaimed today that tomorrow should be a day of mourning for Franklin D. Roosevelt throughout the United States.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 13.—Chiefs of state and military affairs assembled at the White House today to help President Harry S. Truman assume wartime leadership of the government.

Secretary of State Stettinius, whose knowledge of the international situation was second only to that of the late President Roosevelt, arrived to join Mr. Truman at 10:15 a. m. (E.W.T.). Top military commanders were due minutes later.

Stettinius was ushered into the room where President Truman was working.

The military chiefs summoned were Fleet Adm. William D. Leahy, the late President's military adviser; Fleet Adm. Ernest J. King, chief of the Navy; Gen. George C. Marshall, Army chief of staff; Secretary of War Stimson, and Secretary of the Navy Forrestal.

These grave consequences dealt with a question mark raised throughout the world by the death of Franklin D. Roosevelt—intimate of Allied war leaders—and the intricacies of international relations: What of the new chief of state, Harry Truman of Missouri?

To Carry On FDR Policies
The new President announced he would try to carry on the Roosevelt policies. He asked the cabinet to stay on, gave assurance that the United Nations conference will open in San Francisco April 25 on schedule.

There were reports at the White House, not yet official, that Mr. Truman may address a joint session of Congress next week, possibly Tuesday.

After a 20-minute conference with the new President, Stettinius left hurriedly for the State department. Striding through a crowd of reporters, Stettinius said:

"No comment. Sorry. No comment."

Mr. Truman's first conferences apparently gave immediate direction to his statement after taking the oath last night that one of his prime tasks would be to prosecute the war vigorously on all fronts.

The assumption was that the new chief would devote the major portion of his day to familiarizing himself with military conditions all over the world.

Summons Old Ally
As one of his first official acts, President Truman was putting the finishing touches to a proclamation calling for a national day of mourning tomorrow in tribute to the memory of his predecessor, Franklin D. Delano Roosevelt, who died at Warm Springs, Ga., yesterday.

Funeral service for the late President will be held in the White House East room tomorrow with burial in the family plot at Hyde Park, N. Y., Sunday morning.

As Truman began his first full day in the office to which he ascended from the vice presidency, he summoned Hugh Fulton, New York and Washington lawyer, to work with him in the executive offices.

Fulton, former counsel for the Senate War Investigating committee, of which President Truman once was chairman, has been mentioned for the attorney generalship if changes are made in the cabinet.

Coal Dealers Will Hear Ration Law Explanation

The meeting, called by the Solid Fuels Administration for War, is open to all interested parties. A representative of the SFAW will explain the recent Regulation No. 26, which requires registration and forms on each coal delivery to certain consumers.

Jurors Inspect Jail
LISBON, April 13.—The Columbiana county grand jury recessed today and journeyed to Youngstown to inspect the Mahoning county jail, where prisoners from this county are housed.

Rendezvous In Germany

It is apparent that the historic meeting of the western Allies and Russia will occur on the plain between the Elbe and Oder rivers, south of Berlin. The western Allies probably will be United States troops of an armored division.

Geographically, the meeting point will be approximately halfway between the new western boundary of Russia and the Rhine Valley, from which British and American forces launched the thrust into Germany proper. In view of the fact the Russians recently have seemed to be poised opposite the probable meeting point while their main military energy was directed at other objectives, a rendezvous may have been agreed on at Yalta. In any event, there is no question now about bestowal of credit for the occupation of German soil; credit can be divided equally between the forces of the west and east.

The United States has supplied the bulk of the western forces and a very large part of the supplies of the Russian forces. Russia has supplied tremendous amounts of manpower, material and the courage and strategy of resistance which broke the German plan of conquest. Great Britain has furnished the same stability in the west which was Russia's great contribution in the east. The smaller Allies have made contributions of varying importance, but each of them has earned a share in the credit for the final victory.

It is not too soon to reach a clear understanding about credit, because of that inevitable shortcoming of human nature which will tempt all of the Allies to claim a little more than a fair share. It was that same tendency which caused hard feeling at the close of World War I; it should be resisted now. A great accomplishment is about to be signaled by a joining of military forces in central Germany—an accomplishment made possible by a greater measure of international cooperation than ever took place before. It must not be spoiled by misunderstanding. There is no fighting man, it is safe to say, who lacks understanding, and every civilian should strive for the same clear perspective.

German Atrocities

As quickly as possible all available documentation of German atrocities should be carried forward as an official project of the United Nations. The indictment against Germany will not rest with the overt circumstances of the war. History's judgment will be delivered also on testimony of unpardonable brutality to the helpless.

The evidence of mass murder of civilians by German agents has piled up to such monstrous proportions that it defies civilized comprehension. It is imperative to preserve a shred of qualified testimony lest the full import of German brutality be discounted by skeptics. Unlike World War I, when the atrocity story was post-war rebuke to over-zealous propagandists, the actual record of atrocities committed by Germans in this war will become a perpetual reminder of the danger implicit in their national character. This time, propagandists were not needed to stimulate Allied fervor; the Germans were out-doing the propagandists even before war began. There is no reason to doubt that the Hitler regime made a policy of systematic brutality and murder. There is no reason to doubt that this was done with the calculated aim of so weakening Europe that its ultimate domination by Germany would be made easier.

Everything that belongs in the historic account should be put there while it is available—an indictment that will stand for all time against a nation which chose not only war but brutality and murder as instruments of national policy.

It Was a Long Time Ago

Shirley Temple engaged to be married . . . it doesn't seem possible. It was only yesterday that her dimples, curls and charming little girlishness were Hollywood's most valuable assets.

But for the record it was in 1934 that Shirley became a child star, after two years in short features . . . 1934 when Sam Insull, was a fugitive and a youth named Van der Lubbe was guillotined for setting the Reichstag Building afire; when the U. S. Army cancelled air mail contracts and flew the mail; when John Dillinger was killed and Dr. William W. Wirt disclosed a "plot" to bolshevize America; when drouth pulverized the dust bowl and Mussolini drained the Pontine marshes; when Dollfus was murdered, Niagara Falls sustained a landslide, Bruno Hauptmann was jailed, King Alexander of Yugoslavia was murdered, the Chicago Exposition of Progress closed forever, and Gloria Vanderbilt became a court ward at the age of 10.

Gloria and Shirley are big girls now. Vienna has fallen to the Russians, we know what was behind the political assassinations in Europe and NRA, Dillinger, "Baby Face" Nelson and the notion that munitions makers arrange wars for their own advantage all are dead.

New Isolationism

The Moscow radio hails the meeting of the international security organization in the United States as proof of the defeat of American isolationism. That is a true but belated observation. American isolationism was defeated and for all practical purposes killed when Congress and both political parties formally disavowed it some months ago.

But with the defeat of American isolationism there have appeared some disturbing tendencies toward a new and international sort of isolationism. It is the isolationism of heads of governments and of statesmen from the people whose destinies they control to a great extent.

Such a tendency was revealed with the forced disclosure of a secret agreement among the Big Three at Yalta. This agreement on Russia's request for extra votes in the world assembly contradicted the intervening assurances of our State department that there would be one vote for each nation.

Decisions and compromises on organization for world peace ultimately affect the people, not the statesmen. Secrecy in these decisions and compromises naturally breeds a suspicion among the people that there may be other undisclosed agreements which could have a profound and tragic effect on their lives and fortunes.

Premier Stalin is not directly accountable to his people for the decisions that affect them. But Great Britain's prime minister and the President of the United States are. And in this country, more embarrassing disclosures of a lack of frankness must inevitably revive and strengthen the isolationism that most Americans have repudiated, and which the Moscow radio has declared defeated.

Nazi Arithmetic

In his Washington column, Peter Edson reports that the OWI, wrestling with the problem of re-educating Germany, thinks that perhaps some teachers who functioned under the Nazi regime might be trusted to teach such harmless subjects as arithmetic.

Our advice to OWI would be to think twice before considering any subject harmless in Nazi hands. We recall a few of Hitler's mathematical formulas. There was divide and conquer, of course. And the unusual teaching, forcibly impressed upon his own people and those of occupied countries, that the whole Reich was not equal to, but greater than, the sum of its parts.

We recall, too, that Hitler put considerable stress upon multiplication and its product of cannon fodder, but sought to confine the course to those of "pure Aryan stock".

There must be other examples that elude us at the moment. But these are enough to convince us that a former Nazi schoolmaster, unless carefully watched, could somehow contrive to add two and two and come out with a new scheme of German world domination.

For Saturday, April 14.

PROFITOUS aspects of leading planets promise a day of decisive efforts in the direction of a cherished fulfillment of most desired hopes and wishes, whether these lie in promotion, preferment, enhanced prestige and popularity, financial security, or in the pleasanter pathways of romance, parties, celebrations of domestic or spiritual felicity. A sound, wise, reasonable and judicious consolidation of the assets and influence at command, may move at high tempo toward the most wanted goals. Be alert to small duplicities or intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of definite advancement upon the goal of heart's desires, whether this be in the realm of home, romance, social or professional prestige, financial or influential accumulations, in which ultimate happiness and well-being may be realized. But objectives must be meritorious, the endeavors carefully and cautiously consolidated, and the ambitions and aspirations noble and purposeful. Much festivity, parties, and gaiety are indicated probably in connection with romantic or social celebration of major events.

A child born on this day will have large and noble aims and aspirations, with the energy, ability and character to attain its cherished goals.

Value of Vaccines, Other Treatment In Colds

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

A GREAT deal of discussion has recently arisen because of the question as to whether or not vaccines are useful in the treatment of colds.

The general consensus at present would seem to be that not a great deal is to be gained in most instances by the widespread use of such preparations, although they may be found of value in certain persons.

In general, measures for preventing and treating colds have not been successful. The protection against colds which develops in the body during an attack does not last very long.

According to Dr. Anderson C. Hilg of Duluth, Minn., immunity against colds cannot be brought about by vaccines, nor is there any protection attained by spraying a vaccine into the nose and throat. The use of vitamin products, cold bath and exercise is thought by many to be equally ineffective.

The administration of sulfonamide drugs has been suggested as a method of prevention, but because of the danger of reactions from these preparations, their widespread use in the prevention of colds would hardly appear advisable. They may help in the prevention of complications.

In places where large groups of people get together, such as in a hospital or similar institution, disinfection of the air with antiseptic chemicals may be effective in preventing the spread of colds.

Relief Treatment
In the treatment of colds, the main efforts are directed toward relieving the symptoms. Drugs such as codeine and papaverine may be of help in shortening an attack if given early enough. These preparations must, of course, be given by a physician.

A person with a cold may well be isolated, not only for the protection of those around him, but also for his own protection, so that germs from other persons may not be transmitted to him. The breathing in of steam often will relieve the congestion in the nose and throat. A drug such as ephedrine in salt solution may be dropped into the nose, and this also may aid in opening the passageway.

The sulfonamide drugs have come into widespread use in the treatment of colds. Their chief value is in the prevention of complications such as ear infections, severe sore throat, or pneumonia. When any of these conditions threaten, the physician will prescribe the proper sulfonamide drug in the right dose.

fatigue. The complete answer to the problem of cold has, as yet, not been found.

OHIO BINGO LAW HAS RETURNED TO HAUNT ASSEMBLY

(By Associated Press)
COLUMBUS, April 13.—The so-called "bingo law," an offspring of the 1943-44 legislature, has returned to haunt the new general assembly. Sen. George G. Shurtz (R) of Newcomerstown, a chaplain, wants it amended.
The 95th (1943-44) general assembly passed legislation, he told the senate judiciary committee last night, "which has, as I see it, violated the intent of the constitution."
The constitution prohibits lotteries and the sale of lottery tickets for any purpose whatsoever.
The enactment to which Sen. Shurtz objects has been interpreted as indirectly legalizing bingo and similar games of chance conducted by an organization for charity, although it was designed primarily to specify heavy penalties for racketeers such as "numbers" house operators.
It provides that a person, to be violator of the law against lotteries, must conduct a scheme of chance "for his own profit," Shurtz declared.
Sen. Lawrence Kane (R) of Cincinnati, a member of the judiciary committee and author of the bingo law, inquired:
"How about horse racing?"
"It is gambling if you bet on it, and I would think that it would be violative of the constitution," Shurtz answered.
Kane told Shurtz "I have former Mr. Bricker's word direct that he thought it (the bingo law) was constitutional. The attorney general thought so, too."
John W. Bricker was governor when the law was enacted.
Dr. R. Lloyd Polak of Cleveland, representing the Ohio Council of Churches, said the federation felt the law "has created a special privilege for certain groups of charitable and religious institutions."
Rev. William T. Patterson, president of the Cincinnati Council of Churches, told the committee that "some of us do not believe it is the business of the church to foster gambling."
Another hearing will be held on the Shurtz bill.

5,000,000 JEWS KILLED IN NAZI AUSCHWITZ PLANT

By THOBURN WIAINT

NEAR ERFURT, Germany, April 13.—Dr. Bela Fabian, president of the dissolved Hungarian Independent Democratic party, said in an interview today that 5,000,000 Jews had been gassed and cremated at a murder factory at Auschwitz, in Upper Silesia.

Fabian said he was taken to Auschwitz 10 months ago with 500,000 other Hungarian Jews and that only 1,000 remained alive.

With Lt. Theodore Gutman of Los Angeles, and Sgt. Siegmund Fuld, New York City, acting as translators, Fabian told a story so terrible as to be almost unbelievable.

Fabian said he could speak English but that he was so unimpaired by the ordeal of his detention that he preferred to give the interview in German.

Old, Ill Were Gassed

"Everyone over 50 was automatically gassed. And if the captain did not like the looks of anyone else, they were gassed too."

"Young mothers, although healthy were gassed if they refused to leave their children."

Fabian said the Germans used him as a translator because he spoke fluent Russian, Hungarian and German.

At Auschwitz, Fabian said, 1,050 Hungarian Jewish boys, all of them intelligent and ranging in age from 14 to 15, were taken in trucks to the gas house and crematory.

Some of them cried, Fabian related, but one of them, a lawyer's son, climbed atop the truck and said:

"Brothers, we should not cry, because we are dying for the betterment of mankind."

At the last minute, he said, a new order came through that only 1,000 of the group should be killed, so 50 temporarily escaped death.

Erratically said he was among 45,000 Jews taken to Auschwitz from Salonika, Greece, and that only between 50 and 60 of them still are alive.

FOR the third time in the country's long search for peace—for the second time with tremendous world effect—a great American leader has been stricken in the very crisis time of all his efforts.

Had Woodrow Wilson retained his health, and Abraham Lincoln his life, and had they been able to outweigh their opponents, the history of America and the world would have been far different.

Only with the passing of time will we know the effect of Franklin Roosevelt's death at the same warm springs, where he once regained full use of the life which was to have such a terrific impact on people everywhere.

While President Roosevelt had been even more the commander-in-chief than other war-presidents, and while his personal consultations with our Allies on military matters had been all-important, there is consolation on this point. The war with Germany is all but over. Plans for the completion of the war against Japan are so far advanced as to make the need for large-scale revision unlikely. The fitting or non-fitting of Russia into the Japanese campaign is the only remaining military imponderable. Either way the effect in that quarter will be principally on the time and strength required for victory, rather than in the disposition of British and American forces.

Like Wilson and Lincoln, Franklin Roosevelt had passed his war crisis. The crisis he faced was peace. Not only victory over present armed enemies, but over the issues which make wars, was the goal he had pursued. He did it with all the power and hope of the United States behind him, and even his bitterest political opponents seldom felt competent to go to the mat with him on his international intentions. But his very personality meant that his relations with Joseph Stalin, Winston Churchill, and other world leaders—yes, with Charles De Gaulle—took on a peculiarly personal color. It leaves us wondering as to the future, knowing that we have lost a leader who had been strangely sensitive to and moulded by 12 years of international crises, military and economic.

Players To Present Comedy April 25, 26

"Penny Wise," a light sophisticated comedy by Jean Ferguson Black, will be the final offering of the 1944-45 season of the Salem Players club.

Just a short time ago and being produced under the direction of Edward Hammill, this play will bring an official close a season which was three other Players club shows, "Murray Hill," "Stage Door," and "A Christmas Carol."

The dates for the presentation of "Penny Wise" are Wednesday and Thursday, April 25 and 26, in the High school auditorium.

A comparatively small cast of seven characters will be seen in "Penny Wise," four being women and three men. The plot of the comedy is one that lends itself well to highly amusing lines and situations, dealing with a rather fancy, cultivated wife, Penny, proves herself wise enough to rescue him from less than three other women who will provide Salem show lovers two full hours of amusement.

The production probably will be staged as the most "modern" play ever presented by the local "Little Theatre" group, according to those who saw it a few years ago during its long run on Broadway.

Mrs. Roosevelt had sent them a message that their father had left away. He did his job to the best as he would have them do, she said.

"What can I do?" asked the new President.

"Tell us what we can do," Mrs. Roosevelt replied. "Is there any way we can help you?"

Outside on the street, a quiet, unbelieving crowd gathered quickly. Confused and dazed, hundreds stood in Lafayette park, across from the White House square, far into the night.

Long since, Mr. Truman had been sworn in by Chief Justice Stone in the cabinet room. Placing his hand on a red-edged Bible, the new President repeated the oath.

He, his wife and their daughter, Margaret, left from a rear entrance for their apartment home where they spent the night, guarded by the Secret Service.

Flies To Warm Springs

Mrs. Roosevelt immediately after the oath-taking ceremony flew to Warm Springs to accompany the body of the President to Washington.

The crowd stayed on, staring a little vacantly and unbelievably at the White House—symbol of the democracy that goes on under a new guiding hand.

Where that hand will direct American destinies none could tell today.

To the fighting men there was reassurance in the Truman statement.

"The world may be sure that we will prosecute the war on both fronts, east and west, with all the vigor we possess, to a successful conclusion."

To the Allied and neutral world there also was hope in declaration by Stephen Early, a White House secretary, that Mr. Truman "wants to say that it will be his effort to carry on as he believes the President would have done and to that end he has asked the cabinet to stay on with him."

United Nations leaders took heart, too, at Mr. Truman's decision that the San Francisco conference go on without delay.

Many Questions Unanswered

There remained a thousand questions. Some of these:

Will Mr. Truman continue indefinitely without alteration Mr. Roosevelt's foreign policies? The new President intimates think there will be slight, if any, changes in over-all policy.

Can he acquire the background to meet soon such pressing issues as raised in connection with the proposed new coalition government for Poland?

Most observers think the purely military decisions will remain in the hands of Marshall and King.

Will he hold a domestic course "a little left of center," as President Roosevelt described it?

Is Harry Hopkins out as international and domestic advisor? Few think he will have much future White House influence. They believe men like former War Mobilizer James P. Byrnes, who flew to Washington from Spartanburg, S. C. to offer his help, will be consulted.

Will Truman be more able than his predecessor to get desired legislation through Congress? Truman knows the value of compromise.

Thus the former Kansas City Saturday clerk goes into the White House with the nation's best wishes.

Water is a good conductor of sound.

Stettinius In Line For Vice Presidency

WASHINGTON, April 13—Accession of Vice President Truman to the presidency moves Secretary of State Stettinius up to next in line for the office.

The vice presidency itself remains vacant, but Sen. Kenneth D. McKellar of Tennessee, president pro-tempore, becomes permanent presiding officer of the senate.

Congress long ago provided for a presidential succession ranging through seven cabinet positions.

In event of the death, removal or resignation of a vice president who has succeeded to the presidency, the line is this: Secretary of state, secretary of the treasury, secretary of war, attorney general, postmaster general, secretary of the navy, secretary of the interior.

It never has been necessary in United States history to go beyond the vice president.

Truman Is 32nd Or 33rd President, All Depending On Count

WASHINGTON, April 13.—Harry S. Truman is either the 32nd or 33rd president of the United States—depending upon how the counting is done.

The congressional directory lists Roosevelt as the 31st president. But some historians list Roosevelt as the 32nd president.

If you follow the directory's reasoning, then Truman is the 32nd president. If you follow the other system, Truman is the 33rd president.

This is the difference: Grover Cleveland became without question the 22nd president when he served his first term from 1885 to 1889.

But after leaving the White House for Benjamin Harrison, who became the 23rd president, Cleveland won re-election to another four-year term in 1893.

The congressional directory simply acknowledges Cleveland's second term but doesn't give him a number and lists his successor in the White House, William McKinley, as the 24th president.

But some historians count Cleveland's second term as the 24th presidency although he was the 22nd man to hold the post.

That's where the difference in counting arises.

Tells of Berlin Riot

KOELLEDA, Germany, April 13.—A German woman who left Berlin a few days ago said today 5,000 civilians rioted in the German capital March 9 and were wiped out by SS troops and police after a heavy street battle among government buildings.

She told American intelligence officers of the First army of the revolt. The woman is an intelligent young actress and her story apparently is trustworthy.

litical differences there has been a personal friendship between us which I have cherished," and added: "It is our earnest hope and prayer that the war will be carried on as it will be to the earliest possible complete victory. The nation must uphold the hand of the new President in war."

Former Gov. Cox expressed regret that Mr. Roosevelt could not live to see his "two great triumphs—victory to our arms and lasting peace for the peoples of the earth."

"In the social and economic reforms, which he has brought to our country, he will rank with Jefferson, Jackson and Wilson. . . . His greatest domestic contribution was the creation of a better life for the average man. That will stand as his monument."

U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft said the President's death "removes the greatest figure of our time at the very climax of his career, and shocks a world in which his words and actions were more important than those of any other man."

The Ninth army dash to the Elbe outflanked all Denmark, and the German ports of Hamburg and Lubeck.

The Third army in the center beat down the last 18 miles to the great Saxony city of Leipzig in a drive east to bisect Germany, join the Russians and bar access from the north to the national redoubt in the Bavarian Alps. The Germans said American tanks were fighting in Halle, 15 miles from Leipzig, after bypassing the city of Merseburg.

Truman Will Attend Funeral Saturday

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 13.—President Truman will attend funeral services for President Roosevelt at Hyde Park Sunday, the White House announced today.

Jonathan Daniels, a presidential secretary, told news conference security rules on the travels of the president will have to be cast aside for this occasion.

While lacking full details of plans for the White House funeral rites tomorrow, Daniels said they would be simple and dignified. He added that no photographers would be permitted in the East room for the ceremony and there will be no radio broadcast of the actual services.

Most of President Roosevelt's family will gather here for the funeral probably including Elliott and James, two of his sons in the fighting forces.

Daniels announced that Harry Hopkins, President Roosevelt's confidential adviser, will fly here from the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn., where he has been under treatment and will return there immediately after the services.

The presidential secretary said Mrs. Roosevelt had expressed the wish not to have flowers sent. He explained that there is a profusion of flowers available both at the White House and Hyde Park.

THE AMERICAN HOUSE

By Virginia Chase

ONE Saturday afternoon in April my father came home unexpectedly. He did not come into the sitting room where we were playing Authors, but instead called my mother out into the hall. Then the two of them went into the parlor and closed the door behind them. Saturday was my father's busiest day. His coming home meant something important. Going into the parlor portended the momentous. We were all agog.

"Maybe someone's dead," Julia suggested cheerfully. At first we could make out almost nothing. Then right out clear we heard my father say it. "A note at the bank."

A note meant a letter. A letter brought news. Julia was right, I decided. Someone had died and left us a fortune. I would take a trip to Europe. I would go on the Lusitania. I would buy myself a red silk petticoat with a flounce. Cousin Victoria was my father's only relation. She lived in a big house called Balmoral on the other side of the Junction. She had been born on the birthday of the Queen whose name she bore, and that circumstance had colored her entire existence, for it gave her, she felt, a real prerogative. She had always told us that every cent she owned would go when she died to The Friends of the Royal Family, an organization of which she was a charter member, but Cousin Victoria was noted for changing her mind.

The front door closed, and my mother, her cheeks very flushed, came back into the sitting room. "Girls," she said, "I have news for you."

Two flounces maybe. . . . "Yes, Mama," we chorused. "Jim McClure has left town," she told us.

I felt terribly let down. So, I could see, did Sue and Julia. Jim McClure was a little pinkish man, and all three of us had viewed him with distaste. His leaving did not move us. Certainly, we thought, it did not justify the parlor.

"He left bills behind him," my mother went on.

That didn't impress us, either. Bills meant little in our life. My father sent them out occasionally, and people paid them in their own way. Sometimes it was with wood or potatoes, sometimes with weekly deliveries of fish and eggs. The grocer was my father's patient. So was the barber and the butcher and the cobbler and the paper-hanger. Every once in a while he would get together with one or another of them for squaring things. "Big bills," my mother repeated gravely. "Bills that your father will have to pay in cash."

We sobered. Our cash was gone, and we knew it. It had gone to buy the American House, to repair and to paint it. To buy horses, and carriages for the stable. Cash did not come easily.

"Your father did what he thought best at the time," my mother continued. She never criticized him, at least in our hearing. "But things have turned out badly. He has spent all of his money and now he has to borrow $500 dollars from the bank."

Then the note didn't concern Cousin Victoria. . . . "Now there is only one way out," "What way, Mama?" Sue asked. "For us to move into the hotel and run the place until he has paid back what he has borrowed."

She must have seen the amazement in our faces. No one in our village ever moved. You lived in the house where you had been born, and, as likely as not, where your father had before you. You were brought up to believe there was something suspicious about people who moved around.

"It's only for the summer," my mother hurried on. "By August your father will have other plans." She paused and sighed. "It will be very different from our life here." My mother's eyes fell to the marble top of the table. "You will probably hear and see things, living there."

could see with our own eyes. . . . Hear with our own ears. . . . "And if you do," she went on, suddenly severe, "I want you to remember your upbringing. If I could only be sure of that. . . ."

We moved on the first Saturday in May. My mother packed only our toilet articles and our clothing, leaving each of us to judge what else was indispensable. "There's no need of carting a lot of things that will just have to be brought right back again," she warned.

The day was dull and chilly. At 9 o'clock my father came for us with the surry. We got in gravely and sat throughout the ride in silence. For the first time I could remember we had locked our door. And we had locked it from the outside.

Ailing Mentor Guides Pirates To Win Over Tribe, 5 To 2

Frankie Frisch Arrives In Pirate Camp, Says He Has Million Club Woes

MUNCIE, Ind., April 13.—"When you are managing a ball club, you're never without a million worries," declared Frankie Frisch today as he hobbled into the Pirate training camp, using a cane as big around as a fungo stick. "The chief worry on my mind right now is second base, unless five long weeks, mostly in bed groaning with pain caused by two badly swollen knees could be considered."

One of the first persons he met was Frankie Zak, who yesterday hurt his right foot when his spike caught in the bag as he was sliding into second. As they shook hands, the Bucco leader remarked: "A fellow's got to be mighty careful about running the bases; just look how my legs are crippled."

Zak Rested for Opener

Zak's injury is slight and he wanted to play this afternoon, but Frisch ordered him to remain out of uniform. "He is listed to play shortstop in the opening game of the season next Tuesday in Cincinnati," explained the Flash, "and today's contest with the Cleveland Indians is simply an exhibition, so what's the use of taking any chances. A day or two of rest probably will be all that is needed to make the wrenched foot as good as new."

"Second base may be a problem, but everybody remembers how Gustine played the position during my first year as manager. His performance was brilliant throughout the season, and now it is my opinion that he should have another great year. If anything should happen, Lee Handley would be the lad to take his place. I am not expecting Pete Coscarart to give up his job in a war plan on the Pacific coast."

"Barnhart Looks Great"

"From all the information given me by Spud Davis, who has been in constant touch with me, Barnhart looks great, but Zak already has a year of big league experience under his belt, and there isn't any question that he is the one to start the season at short, with Barnie ready to take his place should a change be necessary."

Upon reaching Muncie, Frisch placed himself in the care of Dr. Charles Jorgensen, who immediately started treatment on the ailing legs and hopes to have them restored to such good shape that the cane can be discarded before the opening game next Tuesday.

"Just look at my trousers," the Flash moaned. "They are three sizes too large. See how they bag like an awning with broken supports. Remember, I've been out of bed only five days and I never realized anybody could suffer so much agony. Both knees were swollen the size of two full-grown pumpkins. I've taken off at least 20 pounds."

"Why, do you know, when I go sneaking up on an umpire, I'm so thin he never will see me—or if he does he will think he is looking at a phantom. But the swelling has all gone now and I think I'm going to be all right very soon."

With that Frisch picked up his cane and was driven to McCulloch park, glad of the opportunity to look his Pirates over for the first time this spring.

At Last A Shortstop To Match Honus Wagner--In Field

The Octopus Nickname Fits Slats Marion

BY AL VERMEER

NEW YORK.—Martin Marion, guidewire of the Cardinals, has not come so far that he can dislodge Honus Wagner as the greatest shortstop of all time, but he has reached the point where he can logically be mentioned in the same breath with the immortal Flying Dutchman.

There is considerable physical difference between the two. Wagner, now 71, was built like a coal car—thick, heavy and hard to stop when he started rolling. Honus weighed 200 pounds, measured 5 feet 11 inches, but despite his hefty could run bases like a frightened panther. In the 1909 World Series he swiped six bases, still a record for seven games.

He had hands like banana bunches, covered his position like a stone wall stretching from second to third base. Honus bowed legs looked inviting to hitters, but he defied them to ram a ball through.

Slat Marion, in contrast, is built straight up and down—6 feet 2 inches tall and only 175 pounds in weight. His dainty figure and tremendous agility in the field have earned him the moniker of "The Octopus," because Slat always seems to have a gloved hand where it is needed. Not a nice nickname in the true sense, perhaps, but a high tribute to Marion's superb defensive skill.

Loss Is First Of Season For Tribe To Major Club

MUNCIE, Ind., April 13.—Ailing Frankie Frisch finally caught up with his Pittsburgh Pirates today, and even the Cleveland Indians joined in the welcoming festivities.

In the opening major league competition for both sides, the Pirates scamped off with a 5-2 triumph over the Indians to cheer Frisch, who had been kept home six weeks by inflammatory arthritis.

The loss was the first in seven spring practice starts for the Indians, who arrived here this morning by bus from Indianapolis. They will face the Pirates three more times here before entraining for Cleveland Sunday morning.

Allie Reynolds, although tagged by the Pirates for 10 hits in the eight innings they batted, deserved a kinder fate. Two balls hit into the rough right field sector took hops over the shoulder of Ed Carnett and, instead of singles, became a home run and triple.

Jack Barrett got the "homer" with two on in the third inning to put Pittsburgh ahead after the tribe had scored twice in its half. Carnett was all set to field the ball when it hit something and nearly took his ear off.

Jim Russell got the same kind of a break in the fifth and collected a triple, scoring a bit later on an outfield fly.

"Man, how I like those kind of hops—when they come for us," chortled Frisch, as he limped to a waiting car after the game.

The Indians started out well in a batting way against an old friend, Fred Ostermueller, veteran southpaw, but soon cooled. Fred allowed one hit in the first inning, two in the third, one in the fourth and the last in the seventh.

Exactly three of the five bingles Fred permitted were collected by Myril Hoag, two singles and a triple.

Successive triples by Mickey Rocco and Hoag and a pass to Roy Cullenbine, with the sacks loaded and two out, gave Cleveland its only runs.

Cullenbine May Start at Third

Manager Lou Boudreau and Pat Seeray went hitless, as did Cullenbine, who played the entire game at third. It is possible that Boudreau is planning to start the veteran against the Chicago White Sox in Cleveland Stadium Tuesday rather than put the pressure on one of his rookies.

Ostermueller and Vic Barnard were on base when Barrett received credit for his four-master. Ostermueller had gained first by forcing Catcher Bill Siskel, who had singled, and Barnhart, son of a former Pirate ace, also singled.

Bob Elliott's fly brought in Russell after his fluke triple in the fifth.

Pittsburgh got a present in the seventh. Barrett got all the way to second when Carnett dropped

Columbiana's Budding Outfit Slated To Appear In Dual Affair At Poland

Coach Fred E. Cope's Quaker thinclads, drilling daily at Reilly stadium, will be idle this weekend as most district track squads swing into action in dual, triangular and inter-squad meets.

Columbiana, reviving track after a two years' lull, will open the season with a formidable aggregation against Poland at Poland tomorrow afternoon.

Salem's outfit, highly touted because of the superb record compiled last year, will not begin activities until next weekend, Coach Cope said today. Efforts were made, unsuccessfully, to book a meet for this week.

former Ohio State university mentor.

MEADVILLE, Pa., April 13.—Protesting replacement of their basketball coach, 700 Meadville High school students greeted with boos and jeers today a warning from their superintendent, to a return to classes or be suspended.

Supt. W. P. Norton addressed the student body at a mass meeting, ordering them back to classes. Two hundred returned, but the other 500 started picketing the school. They carried signs reading "We Want Demmon!"

The school board's athletic committee had announced that Preston Ditty, athletic instructor, would replace Harry Demmon, as basketball coach. This prompted a demonstration yesterday in which the pupils paraded through the city's business district with placards and banners.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"When this war is all over, Judge, there will be some mighty interesting books written about it. Expect we'll learn a lot of things we didn't know before."

"Yes, Fred, when the record is finally written we'll realize what a gigantic operation this war really was and how important to final victory many factors really were."

"Take, for example, just one industry. Few people realize the importance of the great work done by the beverage distillers during the war. A high government official called it 'an almost unparalleled example of the overnight conversion of an entire industry from peace to war.' He also said not so many months ago, while speaking about synthetic rubber, 'It is fair to regard the rubber manufactured to date as being almost solely the product of the beverage distilling industry.' That's the type of thing I have in mind... the way great American industries at home cooperated to help our brave fighting men abroad."

"I see what you mean, Judge... a complete history of American teamwork."

Dutchman Superb In Field Play—Barring None

Slats' brilliance in the World Series.

"We have a remarkable shortstop in Vern Stephens," commented Bill DeWitt, "Junior made the best play of the series, running back to spear a ball which saved a game for us, but I am forced to admit it was Marion who blocked us from the world championship. I never saw anyone like him."

Honus Averaged .329

Marion still has some things to do before he can shoulder into Wagner's class, however, for in addition to his other talents, Honus was a remarkable hitter, amassing a .329 average during his 21 years in the National League. And not against war-time pitching, either. Marion has clouted .270 in his five years with the Cardinals. Also, he has yet to match the Dutchman's record for endurance.

But there is no questioning the fact that "The Octopus" is already in Wagner's class when you consider fielding qualities alone.

Old Honus has not much to say on the subject. Modestly, he still claims:

"Hughie Jennings was the best shortstop who ever lived."

THINKS JAPS WILL SURRENDER EARLY

(By Associated Press)
 CINCINNATI, April 13.—Gen. John L. Hines, the Army's former chief of staff, says he thinks the Japanese may give up the fight soon after Germany is beaten.
 "The Japanese war may end sooner than many people suspect," the general said on a visit here. "I wouldn't be surprised if they gave up shortly after the German collapse."
 Retired in 1932, the 77-year-old general recalled years spent in Japan.

 "That was more than 40 years ago, of course," he said in an interview, "and they were decent enough people then. There had as yet been no effort to brutalize them. But they always did just as they were told. They'll surrender fast enough if they are told to."
